GETTYSBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 2, 1910

NO. 24

END OF JANUARY COURT

MANURE SPREADER CASE ENDS IN VERDICT FOR 3-5 OF PRICE.

In Pole Tax Case of Borough of Gettysburg the Court, Expressed Himself on Proceedings.

On Tuesday a jury was selected to try the case of John S. Weaver vs. Jacob Slothour and all other jurymen were discharged, it being the only case of the six on the Trial List of civil cases to be tried. The action was for the recovery of the contract price of a Clover Leaf manure spreader, $120. The defendant contended that the spreader did not come up to the conditions of contract. That when he started to use the machine it would not work and he could not use it in his work, but admitted after plaintiff had fixed it so it would work it remained at his place and he had made an offer of $75 for it. The jury at conclusion of case on Wednesday morning brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $75 and that placed the costs on defendant. Chas. S. Duncan, Esq., represented the plaintiff and W. C. Sheely, Esq., the defendant.

The case of the Borough of Gettysburg vs. the United Telephone Co. was tried before Judge Swope on Friday without a jury. The borough claimed a license per pole of fifty cents under an ordinance passed in May, 1904. A peculiar situation was presented as the Court had fixed on May 13, 1907, a fee of ten cents per pole for the Bell Telephone Co. to pay under an Act of Assembly passed April 17, 1905, which authorized the Court to determine the amount of the annual license fee in case of dispute as to reasonableness of amount between a municipal corporation and telegraph, telephone, light or power corporation. The borough had further petitioned the Court to alter the amount in the case of the Bell Telephone Co. but had permitted the application to sleep in court. Upon the trial the Court referred to this condition of affairs and indicated that the amount fixed by the Court in such proceeding would be applicable to all the companies, and that the proceeding should be under the Act of 1905, rather than to bring suit against a company, while the question was pending, and that the action of the Court under the Act of 1905, as to one company was applicable to all should be respected and suits against other companies were unnecessary. The Court heard testimony of Chief of Police Gordon of counting poles, etc., and reserved decision. R. E. Wible, Esq., for plaintiff, C. S. Duncan, Esq., for defendant.

The case of Thomas J. O'Neill vs. Alex. H. Rebert, involving question of damages for not delivering the title for real estate contracted to be bought, when called for trial was found to have been settled.

Jonas E. Lobaugh was appointed guardian of Chas. R. Lobaugh, minor child of Christian Lobaugh, late of Huntingdon township.

In the case of Edward Millheims vs. John R. Bittinger, a rule was awarded to show cause why an appeal should not be allowed to be taken from the docket of Justice of Peace E. L. Eckert, defendant, alleging that Justice had neglected to give transcript and perfect the appeal. Rule was made returnable March 7.

In action of Moul & Bollinger vs. John F. Walter, judgment was taken by plaintiffs against defendant for $343.49.

W. D. Stock and Margaret D. Rife were discharged as administrators of Jesse Diehl, late of Mt. Pleasant township.

Nathaniel M. Baker was discharged as administrator of Cornelius Baker, late of Reading township.

John D. Keith, Esq., was appointed commissioner in divorce in the case of Ezra A. Cashman vs. Anna M. Cashman.

In the tavern license granted by the Associate Judges to Lewis Culp of McSherrystown, where 238 persons had signed the application for license and 58 the remonstrance, Judge Swope had indicated that he desired to put his views in writing and later filed the following dissenting opinion:

In re petition of Lewis S. Culp for tavern license in the borough of McSherrystown. The petition asks for the licensing of a new hotel in the Borough of McSherrystown.

I regret my inability to agree with my associates in the disposition of this application.

Their conclusion, I think, is entirely natural and honest on their part, by reason of the exceptionally large number of petitioners asking for the license and, comparatively at least, the small number of those remonstrating against the granting of it.

It must not be overlooked, however, that under similar effort and persuasion, it is much easier to secure signers to aid or in the accomplishment of his desire, than it is to secure signers against the wisdom and good policy of his effort.

Giving proper consideration to the petition and remonstrance and not overlooking my own knowledge of the conditions attending the place asked to be licensed, I would refuse this license for the following reasons:

1st. Because the petition has failed to show the necessity of the place as a licensed hotel. McSherrystown has a population of about 1700. It already has two licensed hotels and two licensed restaurants and a good unlicensed restaurant. The claim that this hotel will be run on the European plan and a good meal be furnished at any hour of the day for from 25 to 35 cents, we consider as entirely impracticable and urged only as a pretext.

2nd. This place was asked to be licensed one year ago and the license was refused. The conditions today are practically what they were then and I can see no proper reason for disturbing that adjudication.

3rd. Failing to see the necessity of this now licensed hotel for the accommodation of the public and strangers and travelers, we feel it would not be fair to the persons now licensed to sell intoxicating drinks in this borough to grant it, and also that the granting of it may greatly endanger both private and public interests by leading to violations of the liquor laws which otherwise there would be no temptation to engage in.

In the matter of sale of quit rent on half lot of ground on York Street, order was made authorizing the County Commissioners to convey to W. A. Taughnbaugh the quit rent of 50 cts. on lot upon payment of Ten Dollars.

The second and partial account of C. H. Myers, guardian of Catharine Blessing a person of weak mind was confirmed absolute.

Distribution of the proceeds of the sheriff sale of the real estate of Lewis Mizell was confirmed nisi.

Prisoners Sentenced.

Sheriff Fissel had but two prisoners who plead guilty to the charges preferred against them and they were brought into Court on Saturday morning for sentence.

Clarence Nugget plead guilty to being a tramp and was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Irish Tom plead guilty to the same charge and the Court told Tom that he evidently was trying to have the county keep him for balance of winter and had calculated that sentence would likely expire when spring was here and he could take to the road and that the Court was going to upset his plans. Sentence was suspended on the condition that Tom left the County on Monday. If he was found in the County after Monday he would be re-arrested and sentenced to jail until next November. When set free on Monday, Tom complained to Sheriff of the action of Court in turning him out in such weather. He seemed to be in no hurry to leave town and having some money the chances seemed good that he would load up on liquor and be a summer boarder for the Sheriff.

Irish Tom defiantly left jail, sore that the Court had turned him out in the winter, made no pretext of getting out of town, filled himself with red liquor, landed in the lock-up Monday evening and was transferred to the jail and will be with the sheriff over the good old summer time.

SAVE MONEY—By buying your Clothing and Furnishings at Myers' great reduction sale. J. H. MYERS, 46 Baltimore street.

Merchants' Meeting.

The Retail Merchants' Association met on last Friday evening. Among other matters reported were the following: The Law and Order Society had accepted proposition to occupy the same room and pay half the rent and expense. President Miller reported receipt of letter from Congressman Lafean saying that owing to the chaotic condition of affairs in Congress he was unable to make any suggestion as to how the Association might assist the Lincoln Way project, but that he had hopes of being able to get favorable action by the present Congress.

Missionary Rally.

A Layman's Missionary Rally of the churches of Adams county has been planned to be held in Gettysburg February 10, to stir up the missionary zeal of the laymen. There will be an informal luncheon in the S. S. room of Christ Lutheran Church at 12 o'clock, noon, to be followed by brief talks reporting the wonderful Missionary Convention at Rochester, N. Y., by delegates Revs. H. A. Riard, E. Victor Roland and Mr. S. O. Lund. Rev. H. B. Gearhart, Secretary of the Harrisburg Co-operating Committee will be here. In the evening there will be a mass meeting in St. James Lutheran Church, to which the public is generally invited. Rev. J. W. Meninger, D. D., of Lancaster will make an address and large chorus choir furnish the music.

Held for Theft.

Sheriff Fissel has as one of his prisoners, Cornelius Flynn, of Hagersstown, charged with the larceny of two rubber mats valued at $75.00 from Reading railroad cars in Gettysburg last June. Flynn was given a hearing last week before Justice Hill. There was submitted evidence of theft of mats, and that Flynn was in town at the time, that a man calling himself Flynn offered to dispose of rubber, and that when he was placed in the lock-up he broke out. Justice Hill held him for trial.

NEW GENERAL ORGANIZER

I. B. KUHN OF McSHERRYSTOWN RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

He has been an Earnest Worker in Labor Field for Many Years—A Well Deserved Advancement.

I. B. Kuhn of McSherrystown, well-known in this place, has been appointed permanent General Organizer of the Cigar Makers' International Union for Southeastern Pennsylvania, with power to appoint assistant organizers, women and men.

Mr. Kuhn became a member of Cigar makers' Union 316, of McSherrystown, in 1890, the year the union was established in that place, at the age of 17; he has been a continuous member ever since, and has had much experience and success in various work and undertakings in the organized labor field.

He served as president of his local Union for about 8 years and during those years when the rapid and continuous growth in membership took place, from 1899 to 1902, when the organization grew from 170 to 1000 members, comprising more than 80 per cent of all the cigarmakers in Adams County and the same proportion in Hanover and vicinity in York County.

I. B. KUHN.

He has traveled extensively for the local Union No 316; the ninth District Association; State Blue Label League; the International Union; American Federation of Labor and State branch, in organizing and label advertising work, and the ferreting out, and suppressing the use of bogus or counterfeit Union Labels.

In the latter work he has had marked success, it being generally held that he has had more success in bringing litigation and prosecutions to a favorable termination than any other man in the labor movement.

Since 1896 he has represented Union 316 at conventions of the International Union, State Federation of Labor, State Blue Label League, and 9th District Association, held at Ephrata, Denver, Reading, Philadelphia, McSherrystown, Williamsport, Allentown, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg and Detroit, Mich. He also represented the Hanover and McSherrystown Central Labor Union at the Scranton, (Pa.) and Denver (Colo.) conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

He was sent to Harrisburg during the sessions of the Legislature of 1901, 1906 and 1905 to promote legislation affecting the law protecting Union Labels of Associations and Unions of working men, and at each session secured the passage of a bill amending and strengthening this law. He has never been much in favor of strikes, only as a last and final resort, always urging that every effort, means and influence be used by conciliation and arbitration to bring about an amicable settlement of the disputes or controversy without the intervention of a strike.

His success is all the more marked from the fact that when a boy, his parents being in very humble and meagre circumstances, he was compelled to enter the factory to learn the cigar trade at the age of 12 years.

His many friends in this section, as well as members of the Union wish him every success in the work he is now about to enter upon.

GEO. D. THORN EXPLAINS

Constitutional Amendments Confusion as to Term of Offices.

The confusion of adjusting the constitutional amendments to the various offices led the "Hanover Record-Herald" to address a letter to George D. Thorn, Chief Clerk of the State Department, who in an answer clearly explains the situation and what the next Legislature must do to get the tangle out of the matter. The text of his letter is as follows:

Record-Herald, Hanover, Pa.

Replying to yours of 25th inst. The amendments and schedule are vague and silent on so many points relating to the terms of office of certain officials that in order to clear up just such questions as propounded by you and many others it is proposed to introduce and pass an act at the next session of the Legislature to clear up the whole matter. The confusion exists through the whole range of offices. For instance, no provision was made for judges whose terms end with the years 1912, and 1916, nor in the case of justices of the peace whose terms end in May 1911 and 1914, while even those ending in 1911 and 1913, and who are commissioned until the first Monday of May, are also up in the air.

There is no question about the length of terms which run for an even number of years; they remain as heretofore; but all those terms that have an odd number of years will each be lengthened one year, so that election officers will serve two years in the future; all county, city, borough and township offices that were three years will hereafter serve four years, and justices of the peace six years.

Your members of council who serve for two years and who were elected in 1909 will probably have their terms extended to December, 1911, and those elected this year will very likely be made to terminate at the same time. With a two-year term for councilmen you will have an entire new council elected each municipal election.

The terms of assessors shall hereafter be four years, but the schedule provides that assessors elected in February 1910, shall serve until December 1911. This was evidently an oversight or blunder made by the framers of the schedule, but it is the law of the State as adopted by the people, and will no doubt have to stand.

As the legislature meets next January, before any vacancies can occur by reason of the existing confusion and doubt, an early action will be taken to adjust all discrepancies, any advice or opinions rendered at this time are merely speculations and of no effect.

Very truly yours,
GEO. D. THORN.

PROPOSED NEW RAILWAY

From Williamsport, Pa., to Frederick, with Gettysburg Branch.

Within the next few weeks, it is said, a charter will be asked for a railroad corporation to be known as The Potomac and Susquehanna Railroad. Just where it will extend from in the north is not definitely known, but Frederick, Md., will be the southern terminus for the present, with Baltimore as the subsequent end of the line. On the north it is thought the line will start near Williamsport, Pa., where it will have connection with the New York Central Railroad. This much is known that the line will come down by way of Duncannon, keeping to the west bank of the Susquehanna, crossing the mountain from Duncannon to Carlisle, thence to Newville, Shippensburg, Chambersburg, Greencastle, Waynesboro, Pen-Mar, Thurmont and Frederick, with a line from near Thurmont to Gettysburg.

It is said the line will be partly steam and partly electric. Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of the trolley line being built from Carlisle to Newville, the Chambersburg, Greencastle and Waynesboro Street Railway, and the line being constructed from Frederick to Thurmont. This will leave a gap between Newville and Chambersburg, one from Pen-Mar to Thurmont, and one from Thurmont to Gettysburg to be constructed, besides all north of Carlisle to destination.

CHICKEN AND BISCUIT SUPPER—The ladies of the Mite Society of St. James Lutheran church will give a chicken and biscuit supper in the lecture room of the church on Thursday evening, Feb. 3, 1910 from 5 to 9 o'clock, supper 25 cents, also ice cream, cake, and candy for sale.

Eddie Plank's Southpaw.

Those interested in the diamond in looking over the field say that good southpaws seem to be getting scarcer every year. The Phila. "Ledger" says in both the American and National Leagues there appears to be a dearth of classy portside heavers. The very fact that the veterans, Eddie Plank and "Doc" White are looked upon as the premier southpaws in the American League is the best evidence possible of this fact.

In the American League Philadelphia is best fortified, having Eddie Plank and Harry Krause, who made such a sensational start by winning ten straight games. Although he has been pitching for some time, Plank is young as to years, and since he takes excellent care of himself he should be able to bring joy in the shape of victories to Connie Mack for many years to come.

Annual Banquet of Fire Company.

The twenty-third anniversary of the founding of the Gettysburg Fire Company, No. 1, was celebrated on Tuesday evening of last week with a delightful banquet. The Fire Company met at the Engine House at 7 o'clock with their wives, daughters and sisters, honorary members, town councilmen and friends, a good company of above, one hundred and fifty people. They marched to the hall of the Independent Order of Americans where the committee made them welcome and at home. The committee was composed of Clifford Wierman, William B. Flemming, E. P. Wisotzkey, Morris Miller and John Menches.

Harry Holtzworth acted as master of ceremonies, calling upon parties present to say something, and there were talks by Wm. Arch. McClean, Councilman Jacob Kitzmiller, E. P. Miller and Hon. Wm. H. Tipton.

The firemen and their guests were then invited to the dining hall where three large tables groaned with the burden of good things to eat and the committee with their numerous helpers saw to it that every one was helped as many times as they could stand. The event proved a very enjoyable one with a flow of good feeling between the firemen and their many friends.

Enumerator Examination

Over 400 applications for the positions of Census enumerator, have been filed with Census Supervisor, Lewis C. Elliott of York, about 100 of these applications were from Adams Co. The applicants from the county will undergo an examination on Saturday of this week at the Gettysburg High School, the examination being conducted by George P. Black, Secretary of the Civil Service board. Mr. Elliott has divided his district of York and Adams county with sub divisions to give each enumerator, as far as possible about the same amount of people to count.

Adams County Baseball League.

An effort is being made to organize an Adams County Baseball League representing Gettysburg, Fairfield, Arendtsville, York Springs, New Oxford, Littlestown and a team from the two towns of McKnightstown and Cashtown and it is proposed to arrange a series of games for the summer for the county pennant. Two of the contemplated rules will be that no player will be allowed to play on more than one team during season and player must live within three miles of the town to where team belongs.

Another Business Change.

The Peoples Cash Store owned by George E. Stock and Pius A. Miller was sold last week to W. Flemming Gilliland the well known dairyman possession to be given February 14. The store will be continued by Mr. Gilliland on a cash basis as it has been run. Mr. Gilliland will dispose of his dairy business.

—Miss Bessie Shields will leave this week for a visit of several months in Philadelphia.

DEATH LIST OF A WEEK.

MRS. AMANDA BAKER, wife of Henry Baker, died at her home near East Berlin, last Thursday morning, Jan. 27, from cancer. She was aged 54 years, 5 months and 4 days. The deceased was a daughter of the late Amos Rohrbach and Mrs. Fannie Rohrbach, of Hanover. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Katie Eisenhart, and a son, Amos Baker, of Hamilton Township, Adams County. Two brothers also survive, John F. Rohrbach and Henry F. Rohrbach, of Hanover, and five sisters, Mrs. Mary Flickinger and Mrs. Catharine Mummert, of Hanover; Mrs. Fannie Unger, of Pennville; Mrs. Sarah Rendoll, of Washington township, York County, and Mrs. Barbara Musser, of Lancaster County. The funeral was held on Sunday, Jan. 30, the services being held at Mummert's meeting house, by Rev. C. L. Baker and Chas. Brown. Interment in the cemetery adjoining. She is survived by her aged mother, 84 years old, living in Hanover.

MRS. SARAH ARENDT died in Mt. Joy township on Sunday, Jan. 30th, aged about 60 years. The funeral was held on Tuesday, services by Rev. Father Hayes, interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

SAMUEL TOOMEY died in Canal Dover, Ohio on January 17th from paralysis. Mr. Toomey was a former resident of East Berlin, and was born near York, Pa., March 1, 1829. He spent his early days on the farm of his birth, and when still of tender age shouldered a boot-blackening outfit and without funds started westward. Over the mountains he walked, stopping here and there to do odd jobs to earn money on which to live. The work of

ELOPEMENT AND MARRIAGE

THE BRIDE OF YORK SPRINGS BUT SIXTEEN YEARS OLD.

They Go to Maryland to Wed and Surprise Parents With a Postal Card Telling of Marriage.

FAIR—SPRINKLE.—Charles Fair of Latimore township, and Ruth Sprinkle of York Springs, eloped on last Thursday to Taneytown, Md., where they were married. The groom is a son of Samuel Fair and the bride a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sprinkle of the Central Hotel of York Springs.

The young man had been paying marked attentions to the young lady for the past seven months but the marriage came as a surprise to all the friends. The bride is only sixteen years of age while the groom is about 22.

The young people left York Springs ostensibly to visit a sister, Mrs. Shope, of York, but instead drive over to Maryland and were married. The first intimation that the family here had of the trend of affairs was when they received a card from Ruth saying: "Don't worry about us, we are married now."

The runaway couple returned to Mr. Fair's home near Latimore on Monday.

PENTZ—RICKRODE.—By Rev. J. A. Burkholder, at his residence in Franklintown, Pa., on Tuesday, Jan. 25, 1910, Charles W. Pentz of Dillsburg, and Miss Bessie Rickrode of York Springs, were united in marriage.

ELINE—KUHNS.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place in St. Joseph's church, Taneytown, Md., on last Wednesday, Jan. 26, at 7 o'clock mass, at which Rev. B. J. Lennon, pastor of the parish, officiated. The contracting parties were Chas. F. Eline of Littlestown, and Miss Katherine V. Kuhns of Taneytown. Miss Katherine White acted as bridesmaid and F. H. Kuhns, brother of the bride, as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Gertrude Gardner. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the home of Chas. Kuhns, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Eline left on a wedding trip to Baltimore, and from there to Washington and Middletown. Upon their return they will reside in Littlestown.

HYSER—WOLF.—Samuel Hyser of near Taneytown and Mrs. Jennie Wolf of Littlestown, were married last Thursday evening, Jan. 27, in Gettysburg, by the Rev. G. W. Sherrick, pastor of the United Brethren Church. After visiting friends in this place for several days they returned to Littlestown where they will reside until the spring, when they will move to Mr. Hyser's farm near Taneytown.

LOHR—BISH.—Miss Ella Bish, employed at the Central Hotel, Hanover, a daughter of Nelson Bish, of Carroll county, Md., and Frederick A. Lohr son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lohr of near Swartz's school house, Conowingo township, were married Saturday, Jan. 22, by Rev. J. W. Berkenbine, at the parsonage of St. Paul's M. E. Church, Lancaster.

DEARDORFF—MILLER.—A. B. Deardorff, son of Henry Deardorff of Aspers, who has spent the past several years in western states, returning home, married Miss Stella Miller, daughter of Samuel Miller of Aspers.

WAGNER—CLEAVER.—On Jan. 22 at Dillsburg by Rev. Hezekiah Cook, Bruce I. Wagner of Dillsburg and Miss Mary A. Cleaver of York Springs.

WOLF—SCHLOSSER.—On Jan. 25th, at the home of the bride in Menallen township, Miss Emma Grace Schlosser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schlosser, of Butler township, and John B. Wolf, of Reading township, were united in marriage by Rev. Theo. C. Hesson.

SMITH—WEAVER.—On Jan. 30th, at New Oxford by Rev. Father Wm. E. Martin, Pius I. Smith and Miss Mary B. Weaver, both of New Oxford.

WISLER—BAKER.—On Jan. 30 at St. Johns Lutheran parsonage, Abbottstown by Rev. A. C. Forscht, Peter Calvin Wisler of East Berlin and Miss Gertrude Baker of Abbottstown. The bride is one of the school teachers in Hamilton township.

Lincoln Day.

One of the most interesting observances being prepared for Lincoln Day is at the Pennsylvania State College, where an address will be made by Hon. Clark E. Carr of Illinois on "With Lincoln at Gettysburg." As Illinois' Commissioner at the time of the dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg in 1863 Colonel Carr was able to observe the events of this memorable occasion and is prepared to speak authoritatively concerning them.

THE FEBRUARY MAGAZINES

PENSIONS FOR TEACHERS—HOW RAISED AND AMOUNT.

Roosevelt Tells of a Buffalo Hunt in Africa—Judge Lindsay Tells of Courts.

Movement for Teachers' Pensions.

New York and Philadelphia were the first to establish pension funds for teachers, and their plan has been generally followed by the other cities that have such funds. From being a purely philanthropic movement, the idea began to grow that taking care of a teacher after her usefulness was over was a fair business proposition. Boards of education no longer felt the necessity of continuing in service those whose efficiency was impaired. For the first few years every cent of the money necessary to support these associations was provided by the teachers themselves, but Philadelphia subsequently gave $10,000 a year to the fund, and lately has annually contributed $50,000. New York gives 5 per cent. of the excise tax, which annually nets $300,000 to this fund. From being the sole work of teachers, there is now scarcely a city in which this pension system is in operation that does not in some way contribute to it.

New York, St. Louis, Buffalo, Syracuse, Providence, Newport, Albany, Detroit, St. Paul, Elmira and Utica ask teachers to contribute 1 per cent. of their salary. Cleveland and Cincinnati require them to pay $20 a year; Rochester takes 2 per cent. for ten years or less; Harrisburg 2 per cent. for ten years or less, and 3 per cent. for all the years after. Chicago asks $5 for the first five years, $10 for the next ten years, $15 for fifteen years, and $30 for all the time thereafter. A pension law is operative in every school district in New Jersey, where 2 per cent. of their salary is asked for the first ten years, 2 1/2 per cent. for the next five years, and 3 per cent. for the remainder.

California asks $12 a year. Baltimore 1 per cent. of the salary for the first ten years, 1 1/2 per cent. for the second ten years, and 3 per cent. for all time after. Columbus asks $2 a month, Indianapolis asks 1 per cent. of the salary of a teacher who has taught less than fifteen years, but not to exceed $10 a year, and 2 per cent. for all the teachers who have taught more than this, but not to exceed $20 per annum. Minneapolis asks $5 for the first five years, $20 for the second five years, and $25 for the remainder of the years taught. Philadelphia asks 1 per cent. of those who have been in service for ten years or less, 2 per cent. for more than this, but the contribution in any one year is not to exceed $50.

The amount of pension varies, New York giving the highest maximum pension, and Boston and St. Louis the lowest. In some there is a uniform rate of pension for all teachers, regardless of the amount of the salary; in others the annuity is in proportion to the salary received. The majority of cities give a life pension of one-half the annual salary. In St. Louis and Boston the pension is $180 a year; in Buffalo, a third of the salary; which, for the grade teacher, amounts to $250 or $300. Cincinnati, Cleveland and Columbus give a maximum pension of $300. Indianapolis gives $300 for twenty-five years of service, and $10 additional for every year taught after this. Rochester, Syracuse and Utica grant one-half of the salary, provided this is not more than $800. Nebraska gives $50, and requires thirty-five years service; Detroit one-half the annual salary; New Jersey not less than $250 or more than $650; California from $30 to $50 a month; Minneapolis a uniform rate of $50 a year; and St. Paul a uniform rate of $480.

Mr. Roosevelt's Buffalo Hunt.

We crept up the water-course until about opposite the buffalo, which were now lying down. Cunningham peered cautiously at them, saw there were two or three, and then led us on all fours toward them. There were patches where the grass was short, and other places where it was three feet high, and after a good deal of cautious crawling we had covered half the distance toward them, when one of them made us out, and several rose from their beds. They were still at least two hundred yards off—a long range for heavy rifles; but any closer approach was impossible, and we fired. Both the leading bulls were hit, and at the shots there rose from the grass not half a dozen buffalo, but seventy or eighty, and started at a gallop parallel to the swamp and across our front. In the rear were a number of cows and calves, and I at once singled out a cow and fired. She plunged forward at the shot and turned toward the swamp, going slowly and dead lame, for my bullet had struck the shoulder and had gone into the cavity of the chest. But at this moment our attention was distracted from the wounded cow by the conduct of the herd, which, headed by the wounded bulls, turned in a quarter-circle toward us, and drew up in a phalanx facing us with outstretched heads. It was not a nice country in which to be charged by the herd, and for a moment things trembled in the balance. There was a perceptible motion of uneasiness among some of our followers. "Stand steady! Don't run!" I called out. "And don't shoot!" called out Cunningham; for to do either would invite a charge. A few seconds passed, and then the unwounded mass of the herd resumed their flight; and after a little hesitation the wounded bulls followed. From "African Game Trails," by Theodore Roosevelt, in the February "Scribner."

Judge Lindsey's Amazing Charges.

Read the Colorado Supreme Court Reports, Vol. 35, page 325. You will find it charged that the Colorado and Southern Railway Company, the Denver and Rio Grande Railway Company, and the public service corporations of Denver had an agreement with Governor Peabody whereby these corporations were to be allowed to select the judges to be appointed to the Supreme Bench; that Luther M. Goddard had been selected as a proper judge by the public utility corporations, but that the two railroad companies objected to him as "too closely allied with the interests of the Denver City Tramway Company and the Denver Union Water Company." "As a last resort," the statement continues, "the agent and representative of the said Colorado and Southern Railway Company was induced to, and did, after midnight on Sunday, the eighth day of January, and at about one o'clock in the morning on Monday, the ninth day of January, repair to the home of the said Luther M. Goddard, calling him out of bed, having then and there such conversation with the said Goddard that the said railway corporations, through their agents, withdrew their opposition to his confirmation, and they did on said morning at about three o'clock thereof announce to the remainder of the said corporations through their said agents and representatives, that their opposition had been withdrawn, and the withdrawal of the said opposition having been announced, the said senate of the Fifteenth General Assembly did, almost immediately upon its convening on the morning of Monday, the ninth day of January, confirm the said nomination of the said Goddard."

The brief containing these charges is signed by Henry M. Teller, United States Senator, and by Ex-Governor Thomas acting as counsel for Senator T. M. Patterson, who had made the charges in his paper "The Rocky Mountain News." These gentlemen offered to prove the charges before the Court, but the Court, in a most amazing decision, refused the offer, held that no matter how true such charges might be, it was "contempt of court" to make them, and fined Senator Patterson $1,000!

Senator Patterson, rising to receive his sentence, protested against it, to the Court. "If constructive contempt," he ended, "is to be maintained as it has been maintained by this court, it can simply mean * * * that we have in each of the states of the union a chosen body of men who may commit any crime, who may falsify justice, who may defy the constitution and spit upon the laws, and yet no man dare make known the facts. * * * From this time forward I will devote myself * * * to deprive every man and every body of men of such tyrannical power, of such unjust and dangerous prerogative."—The Beast and the Jungle, in "Everybody's," for February.

The Mono-Rail Car.

In "McClure's Magazine" for February Percival Gibbon, in his article on Louis Brennan's mono-rail car, gives this simple illustration of how the problem of equilibrium was solved:

"When Brennan made his early models, he found that, while the little cars would remain upright and run along a straight rail, they left the track at the first curve. The gyroscope governed their direction as well as their equilibrium. It was the first check in the evolution of the perfect machine. It was over ten years before he found the answer to the problem—ten years of making experimental machines and scrapping them, or filling useless patents, of doubt and persistence. But the answer was found—in the spinning top."

"A spinning top set down so that it stands at an angle to the floor will right itself; it will rise till it stands upright on the point of equal friction. Brennan's resource, therefore, was to treat his gyroscope as a top. He enclosed it in a case, through which its axles projected, and at each side of the car he built stout brackets reaching forth a few inches below each end of the axle."

"The result is not difficult to deduce. When the car came to a curve, the centrifugal action tended to throw it outward; the side of the car that was on the inside of the curve swung up and the bracket touched the axle of the gyroscope. Forthwith in the manner of his father, the top, the gyroscope tried to stand upright on the bracket; all the weight of it and all its wonderful force were pressed on that side of the car, holding it down against the tendency to rise and capsize. The thing was done, the spinning top had come to the rescue of its posterity. It only remained to fit a double gyroscope, with the wheels revolving in opposite directions, and, save for engineering details, the mono-rail car was evolved."

A Tuberculosis Experiment.

"A very interesting experiment was started by a friend of mine, Doctor Pratt, of Boston—the tuberculosis class in connection with a church," says Dr. William Osler in "Woman's Home Companion" for February. "It is a nice sort of practical religion for any church to undertake. Dr. Pratt's first class consisted of fifteen or twenty persons, chiefly young clerks, all in the early stage of the disease, and all still at work. He met them once a week in a room off the school-room of the church, and there they discussed their cases with him. They were weighed every week, a careful analysis was made of their symptoms—how much they had gained, or how much they had lost. Each one took his own temperature, and brought his notebook, and it is a remarkable record of several years' work that has been carried on. A number of these young persons, some with quite well-marked symptoms of the disease, have been completely cured without going to a sanatorium, without going away and while continuing their work. I know of no more encouraging feature in connection with this disease than this practical experiment, which has been carried out so successfully."

One word in conclusion on the troublesome point about which we physicians have to worry a great deal and the public still more. One often hears the statement: "All this fuss about tuberculosis is terrible for the poor victims who are made social outcasts, to their great distress and to the alarm of their families." There is no justification for this feeling.

There is no risk in close contact with tuberculosis if the patient is ordinarily careful about the sputum. If one is morbidly afraid of the disease and desires a place of safety where one can get away from its germs, go to some first class sanatorium for tuberculosis. There are fewer germs there in the air and on the floor than in any other place in the country, and there is very little risk of catching the disease in the house of a tuberculosis patient if he takes good care of the sputum, and sees that it is properly disinfected.—Dr. William Osler in "Woman's Home Companion" for February.

Police Torture by Electricity.

Electricity is becoming more and more popular with the administration of the "Third Degree." The favorite method of its application is called, in prison slang, "the humming-bird." The prisoner is stripped and bound. Sometimes he is gagged, also, for he is very apt to scream and shriek. The electric current is turned into a sponge soaked with water so that none of its strength will be lost. A long handle is attached, and the operator, with rubber gloves, approaches the victim, who generally is deposited in a shallow tank or tub. The sponge is applied gently to the man's legs and then pressed slowly upward over his limbs. Perhaps the current is not particularly strong and he only clenches his hands or bites his lips. The pressure is gradually increased as the sponge continues its way up and down the unprotected legs and thighs. A low, buzzing, singing noise emanates from it like the sound of a humming-bird. This is the whirring of the "juice," and is the reason for the somewhat striking name which has been applied to the apparatus. The prisoner's limbs are now doubling up in great, frenzied knots, and his veins are swollen to double their normal size as he tries in vain to tear himself from his bonds. And still the sponge continues its path over his body. It has now become a coal of fire.

You will observe that this method of the "Third Degree" is somewhat unwhildy. Perhaps this is why it is not used more extensively through the country. You will find, on investigation, however, that it is fairly common.—Hugh C. Weir, in "The World of To-Day" for February.

The Standard Oil in China.

The two largest and most successful foreign business concerns in China are American, says Louis Brownlow in "Success Magazine." They are the Standard Oil Company and the Tobacco Trust. The former operates under its American charter and is controlled from No. 26 Broadway, New York.

It was the desire of the oil men to induce the Chinese poorer classes to use kerosene. It was to this end that a small lamp was invented which could be sold at cost of about five or six cents. A quarter of a million of these lamps were made in an Ohio city and sent out to Shanghai. The Standard Oil agent gathered into his office several of the Chinese merchant guilds. They were shown the lamps, it was explained to them how even this small lamp would be a great luxury in a household where there had never been any artificial illuminant; how the luxury would soon develop into a necessity, and how the purchaser of a lamp must thereafter forever be a purchaser of oil—in fact, a very slave of the lamp. The Chinese merchants were not slow to see the advantages to them as the retail distributors of the oil, and they placed their orders for lamps. This is one of the reasons why the Standard Oil business in China has prospered so wonderfully, and it illustrates in itself the vastness of the Chinese market and its susceptibility to being trained to demand goods which it does not now consume.

Uncle Sam's Great Payroll.

Talk about the complications of life—Uncle Sam has his troubles. Interesting facts are gleaned from the blue book of 1909, which has just been issued by the Census Department. The number of federal workers on the government payroll is now rapidly approaching 400,000, which represents a twenty per cent. increase in about two years.

The Treasury Department leads with an enrollment of almost 7,000 persons, and Secretary Mac Veagh has the largest payroll of any cabinet official. Over $31,000,000 are paid to 28,000 persons in Washington, averaging a little over $1,000 each. This will be increased during the coming year by the 3,000 people to be added to the Census Department, which will soon evaporate the additional appropriation of $5,000,000. All other states and territories take a back seat in the rear of the national Capitol when it comes to the enjoyment of Uncle Sam's payroll, when compared to the District of Columbia. Residents of this area receive over $7,000,000 of the budget; New York follows with a compensation for governmental service aggregating a little over $5,000,000. Arizona is the most modest in the sisterhood of states in regard to the money received, as her officials only receive a total of $25,000. Strange to say, the executive department of the government does not stand high on the payroll in regard to the number of persons employed; only forty-three persons all told are engaged in attending to the business and personal affairs of the President of the United States, and the executive department of the "great est nation on earth" as Barnum would say it.—"Affairs in Washington," Joe Mitchell Chapple, in February "National Magazine."

Protecting a Robber Trust.

In this striking article on tariff matters in "Human Life" for February, Alfred Henry Lewis says, "When an 'infant industry' gets so big and strong that it climbs the fence and wallows in the neighbors' young ones in those neighbors' own back yards, it hardly needs 'protection.'"

"Come back with me to that question of sugar 'protection.' It was but a few weeks ago when the Sugar Trust put out these illuminating figures. Naming that 2 cents a pound (tariff) grade of sugar, it quoted it for the home market at 4.45 cents a pound, and for exportation at 2.60 cents. 'Here is proof enough of tariff fidelity to hang a man. The Sugar Trust is given 'protection' to the tune of 2 cents a pound. This 'protection' by anticipation of those who drew the bill, will result in less than $120,000 a year to the treasury. As against this, what does it mean to the Trust? Now we come to the Ophir—the real gold mine—in this business. The American public consumes 6,371,578,000 pounds of sugar from New Year to New Year. That 2 cents a pound—a shadow less, in fact—puts over $126,000,000 into the 'protected' pockets of the sugar people. Of this huge rapine the Trust takes the lion's share," (Continued on page three.)

Hundreds More in Gettysburg in the Same Plight.

Tired all the time:

Weary and worn out night and day;
Back aches; side aches,
All on account of the kidneys.
Must help them at their work.

A Gettysburg citizen shows you how:

Mrs. John Menchey, 46 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are an effective kidney medicine. I can recommend them just as highly today as I did two years ago when I gave a public statement in their favor. For a long time I was in poor health and finally kidney trouble made its appearance. The pains in my back were so severe that I could hardly move and often I became very dizzy. I had chills and headaches and knew that something must be done. On the advice of a friend, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at People's Drug Store and to my gratification, their use restored me to good health. Doan's Kidney Pills are a blessing to kidney sufferers."

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG,
SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures. If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WONDERFUL TRAIN SERVICE

THROUGH PENN'A R. R. TUBES UNDER THE HUDSON RIVER

Trains Cannot Go Wrong But Are Stopped by Electricity in Running Past a Danger Signal.

"It's no man's land under the river," the ferry men say. "In the tubes things are done by clock-work and a man's a cork. He can't go wrong if he wants to. Give me the terryboat where you can bump in a fog. And say, what are a man's wits for if you can't use 'em?"

The ferry men are very nearly right. In the tunnels red and green lights tell a man what he can and what he can't do, and if he doesn't mind, something comes up out of the track, touches his ear in its vitals and maims it before any damage can come to the passengers.

Yet there is romance in it too. It is romance of the big sort in which brains rather than wits have their play, where prearrangement and power unseen do homely tricks day by day in place of stage rescues and tooting sirens. Things happen and trains are watched in ways that hungry commuters don't understand and would never know about, unless they were to lose themselves some day in the catacombs of the Hudson Terminal Building and chance upon a silent man who watches wisps of green light come and go behind a charted sheet of glass.

It is a strange place there in the semi-dark of the silent man's operating room. You hear the click of metallic contacts and the hiss of pneumatic valves, and on the screen the trains travel to Jersey and back as clear to the eye as though they were not seventy feet under the water and silt of the Hudson.

Napoleon used to plot the manoeuvres of his armies on a map, moving pins here and there to indicate the movements of the soldiers. It is the same idea there in the switch room, which they call a tower, though it is sixty feet under the level of Cortlandt street, save that the chart shows the movements of the trains with absolute precision, whereas Napoleon had to trust to the reports of his riders. It is an idea which is worked out on the Hudson and Manhattan lines with greater perfection and to greater extent than anywhere else in the world.

Out in the tubes the scheme of train control doesn't appear to the passenger to be in any essential different from that used in the subway. They say in the Hudson tunnels that you can always tell a stranger to New York from the fact that he stands in the vestibule of the forward car, along side the motorman's box and watches the train crook itself through the long reaches of the tube. What he sees is worth looking at.

There are strings of green lights seen in pairs. At first sight they look like cats' eyes in the dark save for the fact that they are placed one above the other and not side by side. Sometimes far ahead down the tube you see an orange light beneath a green, and ahead of that a ruby light shining grimly over a glowing eye of orange. What they mean the traveler learns when the train creeps up too closely. Suppose that you are a motorman and swing into the tube at the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City a couple of minutes behind another train. You have a mile and a quarter to run before you reach the terminal on Cortlandt street and you have three minutes to do it in. It may be that you are half a minute late, and so you let your motor sing her best, knowing that you can creep up within a minute and a half of that other train and still keep within the rules.

The green lights are shining far down the tube. That means a clear road and you let the motor have all she can take. But presently you have to ease her off to round a twist in the tube and on the far side of the curve you come face to face with an orange signal. The top light still shines green. That lets you into the block, but the orange light, the so called distant signal, prescribes caution. So you tie a knot in your impatience and let the train loaf. Ahead is a red light which the trainman call the home signal, shining hotly over the orange distant signal. You know that light means to stop.

But as you creep up to it the red blinks green and you enter the block. You go slowly as before, for it wouldn't do to catch up too far on that train two blocks ahead.

But perhaps something goes wrong in your head or you can't help urging that train ahead to get out of your way. It may be that you sicken all of a sudden and lurch forward against the controller, holding it at full speed. The red home signal stares you in the face, but you spin past it with all the momentum that your five motors can give you. It seems as though nothing in the world could keep you from bumping that other train and perhaps crushing the lives out of most of your passengers and the passengers in the cars ahead.

But the man who planned the tunnel fixed it so you couldn't do anything like that, not even if you were to go mad. Connected with the same steel bars which move the signal and cause it to shift from red to green is a 10 inch finger sticking up from the side of the track. It is up-right when the red signal is set and flat when the light shines green.

When there is need for it, as there would be if you were to run past a red light, it aims straight for the arm of an air valve. It catches it, gives it a thrust and the brakes fly on so hard while a huddle of little sugar rascals take the jackals. And every dollar, every dime of that $126,000,000 comes out of the pockets of the public—of you and me—of the people whose misrepresentatives in Congress assembled have built the lay. Every splinter of that $126,000,000 comes out of us. Which is why we go afoot, or cling to straps, while a Spreckles or a Havemeyer has his yacht or private car. Going now to an average, each family in the land is taxed $8 a year in favor of the Havemeyer and the Spreckles families. Who was it said, "What fools these mortals be?" He must have been looking at a tariff bill.

THE FEBRUARY MAGAZINES.

The Insurgent West Getting Ready for War.

Ray Stannard Baker contributes a remarkable article to the February American Magazine on the Insurgent revolt in Congress. He has recently been West and thoroughly combed the country in an endeavor to get at the real feeling of the people in that section as regards the light that some of their representatives in Congress are waging. Mr. Baker's observations are particularly interesting as compared with the impressions he received in the same territory five years ago, when he was investigating the railroad situation. He writes:

"About five years ago I made a trip through much the same territory that I have covered during the last few weeks. I was studying the railroad problem, and I remember how difficult it was to find men who were informed on the subject or who dared to talk. A lone fighter here and there was contending against overwhelming odds. Most of the politicians—though La Follette, Cummins, Lenroot, Stubbs, and a few others were then in the fight—were on the other side, defending the railroad political bosses and doing all they could to smother progressive legislation. And they were backed almost solidly by the business interests, great and small.

"Today everything is changed, or changing. Through the agency of direct primaries, the commission form of administering city affairs (the 'Des Moines plan') with the referendum, initiative and recall, government is coming out at last into the daylight. The influence of the railroads upon politics is being clipped by means of anti-pass laws, the appointment of railroad commissions and the beginnings of rate regulation. Everywhere the demand of the old Greenbackers 'for more direct power of the people over their government' is being carried out.

"As I traveled through the West it seemed like a wholly different country from what it was five years ago. Perhaps the most surprising things I found were the new organizations of every sort which were getting joyously into the fight, concerning themselves more or less vitally with public affairs and finding it the best sport in the world.

"You will scarcely find any town in the West worth mentioning that is without its voluntary citizens' association, improvement league, city club, municipal voters' league, citizens' association, or law-enforcement league. And, as a Minneapolis enthusiast expressed it, they are 'on the job three hundred and sixty-five days in the year.' They are doing more or less unselfishly for their cities and states what the Tammany Halls and the 'machines' have been so long doing for selfish ends.

"Now, this is a very important element in our democratic development and no one can understand the depth and vitality of the Insurgent movement who does not take account of these voluntary co-operative organizations. It is a curious thing how oblivious the old stand-pat party leaders are to these people's movements."

Will Next House be Democratic.

Hon. Champ Clark in the "National Monthly," the Democratic magazine, for February, in an article on "Democratic House Seems Certain," says: "The trend of events is toward a Democratic House. In the Fifty-ninth Congress, elected in 1904, the Republicans had a majority of 114. In the Sixtieth Congress, their majority was fifty seven. In the present Congress, the Sixty-first, they have forty-seven majority. Both the Fifty-ninth and the Sixty-first Congresses were elected in Presidential years, when the Republicans had the benefit of enormous campaign funds and when the whole of Theodore Roosevelt's influence and popularity were exerted in favor of a thorough united party. The true measure therefore, of the trend toward a Democratic House is found in the reduction of the Republican majority of 114 in the Fifty-ninth Congress to 57 in the Sixtieth. A like change at the ensuing election will give us a Democratic House by a small majority. That would probably be the result under ordinary circumstances with a united Republican party; but the party instead of being united is divided into factions which are fighting each other to the death. So we seem justified in expecting a Democratic House by a good working majority."

Need of Institute For Farm Women.

No one will deny the value of the Farmers' Institute to the agricultural world, disseminating among the farmers, as it does, the knowledge gained by the scientist in his laboratory and on the experimental farms. Today we have higher-priced farms, larger crops, more sanitary barns and better milk-producing cows as a result. Money has been spent lavishly and intelligently for this education of the farm er. How much has been spent for the farmer's wife? How many scientists and experimenters are working, searching, studying, for truths that will help the farmer's wife in her work? You can nearly count them on your fingers. Yet the report of the Commission on Rural Life finds that "The women need more help," and "It is important that at rural meetings the home topics shall be discussed."

One of the great difficulties is to keep the young people contented on the farm. They leave at the first opportunity, and father and mother must depend upon hired help or no help. The cause for these conditions lies a great deal with the lonely, overworked mother, who loves her little ones too dearly to wish them ever to lead the dreary life she leads. And imprinted on the child, before it is born, is the distaste for the mother's surroundings.

All the woman on the farm asks is fair play. She does not ask that men shall study her needs. She asks only that she have a chance to meet and confer with other women, to work out the solutions of their many problems; that the Government give her an equal chance with her husband; that the same time and money—or enough time and money—be allowed for her needs that are given to his.

"Why does the farm woman need such help more than the woman in the city?" Because of her isolation. She has no other women with whom to consult. Church is not the place, and that is about the only spot where she meets other women who might be of help to her.

The report of the Department of Agriculture of Ontario says: "Of all the money expended for education in Ontario there is no department that has brought such large returns as the money expended by the Department of Woman's Institutes, for the reason that when a woman is educated she educates her whole family."—Delineator for February.

Beautiful Pictures by Mary Cassatt.

Good Housekeeping for February contains eight beautiful pictures by Mary Cassatt of Mother and Child, and in an article by Gardner Teall on Mary Cassatt, whose grandfather was a native of Adams County, it is said that the art of Mary Cassatt is great art because it is the work of a true and of a gifted humanist who perfectly expresses her humanism. One may not compare it to the painting of Andrea del Sarto, or Raphael, or Titian, Correggio, or to Rubens—it is itself strikingly individual, though it has in it just that which makes these masters loved—a humanity speaking by art's voice to man's ear of beautiful things he comprehends. Mary Cassatt's art does not devise fascinating intricacies to enmesh the admiration of the esthete. Like Sorolla she puts health into the beautiful souls she suggests, from infancy to maturity, and she never leaves us feeling sorry for mankind, as we do when we stand before the pictures of even so marvelous a painter as Zuloaga.

That this American girl should have gone to a foreign land to study and to live and yet should have remained American in all that makes us proud of American womanhood, is a note of the strength of her personality.

She works quietly and happily. I doubt if there exists a photograph of her, and yet I feel, as every one must feel who knows her and who studies her work, that so much of herself is embodied in each of her pictures that they, perhaps, are almost portraits themselves of the soul of this great artist who paints with perfect fidelity that nobility of womanhood which is the American ideal.

DEATH LIST OF A WEEK.

a bootblack was not much needed by the mountaineers of those days and the little fellow, who could not speak a word of English, had a hard time. Undaunted by the trials of traveling on foot he kept on until he reached Sugar creek Falls, Ohio, when he had but 75 cents, his bootblackening outfit and the clothes he wore. He learned blacksmithing and soon opened a shop of his own. He devoted most of his time to the building of buggies and carts. He became a fancier of fine horses and owned a "racer" as soon as he had gathered enough money to purchase one. It was then that he worked on his first "race cart" which has since developed into the famous, "Toomey Two Wheelers." At one time Mr. Toomey had 112 fine bred racing horses, and many were entered on the track. He also owned a valuable breeding farm.

WILLIAM RADFORD KERRIGAN, died at Baltimore city Hospital on last Wednesday morning, Jan. 26th, aged 76 years. He was born in Emmitsburg where he lived all his life, with exception of the last few years, which he spent with his sons in Baltimore. He leaves two sons, James J. and Edward J. of Baltimore, and is survived by one brother, James M. Kerrigan of Emmitsburg. The body was taken to Emmitsburg, and funeral held on last Friday, at St. Joseph's Catholic church, with interment in the Catholic cemetery. He was a first cousin of Hon W. T. Ziegler of this place.

Jan. 30th, in McConnellsburg, Elizabeth Daniels, infant daughter of Lesie W. and Estelle Seylar, and niece of Mrs. A. Dauver Buehler, aged about 3 months.

WILLIAM D. SHINDLEDECKER died on Friday, Jan. 21st, at his home in Hamilton township, aged 80 yrs, 9 months and 6 days. He was a veteran of the Civil War. He was born in Sabillasville, and lived 52 years in the house where he died. The funeral was held on Monday of last week, Rev. Daniel Eyler conducting the services at the house, and interment at Union Cemetery, Fairfield. He leaves a wife who was Margaret Wetzel, and five children, William Shindledecker, of Franklin township, Emanuel and John Shindledecker of Cumberland township, near Greenmount, Mrs. Amanda Lightner, and Samuel Shindledecker, of Hamilton township. He is survived by 12 grandchildren.

MRS. MARKS BREAM died at her home in York on Thursday morning aged about 76 years. The deceased had been suffering from cancer for the past couple of years and death brought merciful release from intense suffering. The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 23, with interment at the Upper Bermudian, Rev. H. Biesel officiating.

JOHN JACOBS, son of Mrs. M. O. Moul, of Omaha, Nebraska, died in that city aged about 25 years. He was a son of the late John Jacobs, a native of East Berlin, who died in Omaha some years ago, a brother of Amos and Cornelius Jacobs, of East Berlin. The mother of the young man was a daughter of the late William Soliday of Hanover.

HARVEY L. TATE died at Mummasburg on Monday of last week from tuberculosis of the throat, aged 29 yrs. The funeral was held on last Wednesday, services by Rev. T. C. Hesson, interment in Arendtsville cemetery. He was a member of the Reformed church of Arendtsville, and an Odd Fellow. He is survived by his father, John W. Tate of Mummasburg, a brother, Clarence Tate of Norristown, and one sister, Mrs. Amos Wolf of Mummasburg.

HIRAM RAFFENSPERGER died at Indianapolis, Ind. from Bright's disease, aged 55 years. He had been the proprietor of drug store in that city for many years. He was born near East Berlin, a son of Martin Raffensperger. He leaves a mother and three sons living in Indianapolis. A half brother and sister survive, George Raffensperger of near Gettysburg and Mrs. Elizabeth Hoover of East Berlin.

ISAAC CAMP died at the home of his daughter at Goodyear, on Tuesday of last week, aged 85 years, 10 months and 15 days. The funeral was held on last Friday, services by Rev. Harvey Bickel, interment at Ground Oak Church. He leaves a son and daughter, W. Camp of Idaville, and Mrs. James B. Walter of Goodyear.

WALTER D. SHEELY died at his home in Bendersville last Saturday, from tuberculosis, aged 19 years and 22 days. The funeral was held yesterday, Tuesday morning, services by Rev. Fioto, and interment in Lutheran church graveyard, Bendersville. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Angeline Sheely, four brothers and four sisters, William and Allen Sheely, of Bendersville, Arthur Sheely of Chicago and Levi Sheely at home. Mrs. Hattie House of Bendersville, Mrs. Robert Garretson of Flora Dale, and Miss Bessie and Ida Sheely at home.

DEVOTED LIFE TO THE SCHOOL

PROF. JOHN M. WOLF TELLS OF HIS LIFE IN SCHOOL WORK.

Started to School at Six Years, Began to Teach at Fifteen and Has Taught Sixty Years.

V.
 In my earlier professional career, there was some opposition to me, nominally on account of my age. This opposition manifested itself when teaching my second term, and my seventh.

In teaching my second term I had 110 pupils on the roll. The opposition to me at the time was mainly due to two men who claimed that they were elected as school trustees, and claimed that my election was illegal because they were not consulted by the board when they elected me. The board told me not to recognize the so-called trustees under any circumstances.

In taking charge of the school I found a vast difference in the deportment of the pupils of this town school, and the pupils of the school of my previous term.

In reprimanding some six of the larger male pupils of the school, their actions plainly indicated to me that their opinion was that my officiousness was incompatible with their ideas as to what was necessary to discipline.

In teaching a few days the deportment of many of the pupils was such that it became necessary for me to resort to heroic measures in order to enforce the rules adopted by me for the government of the school, and of which the pupils had been fully advised.

In order to enforce discipline it was necessary for me to use the rod, and the first ones to feel the effect, were the six boys referred to, and after giving each of them a good dose of "cherry bounce," settled all matters at variance between us, and I had little trouble with the pupils during the school term.

But, among the pupils punished was the son of one of the so-called trustees. The same evening the gentleman called on me in the school room and threatened to trounce me. My advice was for him to leave the room and lodge his grievances with the board of directors. He left, but returned and requested me to inform him what the offense was for which his son was punished, and after telling him, he left the room, went home, called his son in the shop, and gave him an additional first-class flogging.

In teaching my seventh term in Paradise township, on a certain day four of the male pupils whose ages were respectively 13, 17, 22 and 24 years, refused to respond when I called the spelling class.

I pulled the 13 year old boy out from behind the desk and gave him a first class flogging, and the other three entered the class. On my return from my boarding place at noon I was astonished to find the school board and the fathers of the boys in the school room, and a collision with one of the men was avoided by the secretary of the board interfering.

It seems the board came to visit the school and in passing the residences of these parties, they accompanied the board to the school.

After these men left the secretary advised me to notify the patrons of the district that the board would meet at the school house the Friday of the following week, at which meeting the board would investigate the charges against me for beating the boy.

That meeting was held and 29 of the patrons attended and after investigating the charges preferred against me, the board decided that the charges against me were not sustained and expelled the four pupils.

I harbored no ill feeling either against the boys or their parents in after years, and as one of them resides not far from Hanover, if he happens to read this he will no doubt remember the spelling class.

ONLY NECESSARY TO TREAT THE STOMACH, SAYS COOPER.

The new theory advanced by L. T. Cooper relative to the human stomach has attracted such widespread attention that the public in cities visited by the young man has been joined by many physicians in a discussion of his beliefs and medicines.

Mr. Cooper says that human health is dependent almost entirely upon the stomach. He says that no disease can be conquered without first alleviating all stomach disorders. He further says that most men and women of this generation are half-sick, owing to degenerate stomachs. And lastly, he claims that his New Discovery medicine will rejuvenate the human stomach in 90 days.

Cooper has been traveling from one city to another, conducting in each what he calls a campaign of education. For the past year he has met the public in the larger cities of the country, and his success has been phenomenal. Thousands of people have flocked to his headquarters wherever he has gone, and the sale of his medicine has been beyond anything of the kind ever before witnessed.

Possibly the most interesting feature of the attention this young man has attracted is what his army of followers, whom he has converted to his beliefs through his medicines, have to say on the subject. The following statements are from two well-known residents of Chicago and Boston, respectively, and the enthusiasm of these is characteristic of Cooper's admirers generally.

Mrs. H. B. Mack, of 3201 State street, Chicago, says "I have been suffering for 12 years from a combination of stomach troubles, catarrh and constipation. I had a gnawing pain in the

Since 1852 I had very little trouble in any of the schools. In 1887 I punished the son of the president of the school board for misconduct in the school. The school building was within 150 yards of the Susquehanna River and the boys were called "river rats." The president of the board preferred charges for whipping his boy, called a meeting, and after stating my case the board suspended his son for 15 days. At the expiration of the 15 days his son re-entered the school and attended the rest of the school term.

I taught the grammar school two consecutive terms and informed the board that if they re-elected the teacher of the primary school they were not to consider me an applicant for the school.

They re-elected the primary teacher, and the director who had my application, withdrew my name as an applicant. The board was still under the impression that I would re-apply. In August, I visited the town for the purpose of getting my books that I had left in the school building after I closed my spring normal. I informed Mr. Kunkel, one of the directors, that I was elected principal of the Littlestown schools in June. One of my normal pupils was then elected and taught the school four successive terms.

Four years afterward I received a telegram stating that if not engaged I should take the school for the ensuing term. I refused the position.

Two years afterward, three of the directors visited me in Hanover and urged me to take charge of their school. I again refused. My reasons for not accepting the school were not on account of the people, but the location of the town, being so near the Susquehanna River.

While I was teaching the school some of my pupils had ague and the last spring I was there teaching a local normal. Dr. Stine of Louisburg, dosed me on quinine six weeks, and on Friday evening after closing my normal I met him when he furnished me with medicine and told me to get out of the town the next morning. I took his advice.

My next article will be on a few more school day reminiscences.

Why Salves Fail to Cure Eczema.

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence, a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents, will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons. pit of my stomach, a sort of a dull pain that I could not quite understand. Then there was a dull headache, and my mind seemed to be wandering continually. I could not eat and what little solid food I did eat I could not retain on my stomach. I tried every remedy I could think of, and also tried out a number of patent medicines, but without any apparent result. It was through one of my friends that I heard of Cooper's preparation, and I immediately decided to try some of it. It is two weeks since I took my first dose of it, and I feel like a new woman. The headache seems to have disappeared, and the pain in my stomach along with it. The medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I want to thank Mr. Cooper for what he has done for me."

Mr. Edwin F. Morse, of 20 Oakley street, Dorchester, a suburb of Boston, says: "For three years I had not a well day. My stomach was in frightful shape; the mere thought of food would nauseate me, and I really had a horror of anything to eat. All solid food would cause me extreme indigestion, bloating and gas on my stomach, and nothing tasted right. Some time ago I got some of this Cooper's medicines, about which there is so much talk. I actually feel as well and strong as a boy ever since the first bottle. Every sign of stomach trouble has disappeared, and I have a hearty appetite and eat three square meals; everything seems to taste good. Anyone who knows what chronic indigestion is can appreciate what this means to me. I consider this the most remarkable medicine I ever heard of."

We sell Mr. Cooper's medicines, and find them to be all he claims."—Peoples Drug Store.

In Buying a Piano

Don't let the Out-of-County Dealer fool you with a coupon check or other device to land your order. Dealers are not giving away good dollars in pianos for nothing. When coupons or other bait is used the price is regulated so that after full credit for the coupon and all other funny business, the dealer gets all he wants, and the same piano could be bought for the same money if the dealer did not resort to the same fooling business. It is his way of trying to make a possible purchaser believe he is getting something more than the home dealer is offering, while the fact is that your money will go as far if not further with the home dealer than with any one else on top of the earth. Don't allow the stranger to cash in his hot air to you.

Come and see us. A full line of best makes of pianos will be found in stock. We are here to stay. We are here to give you the square deal. We are here to make your money go as far as money can go in the purchase of a piano.

—Prof. Franklin Menges, of York, was appointed State Entomologist by the State Agricultural Board last week.

—The dates selected for the next Hanover Fair are Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23.

—A fire in drug store of David A. Buehler, of Harrisburg, was put out by a clerk in a clever way. Being discovered in cellar he turned on fire a stream of soda and got it under control. The fire had caught in excelsior near furnace and about $200 damage was done.

—Miss Sara Daniels, of Steelton, is a guest of Miss Viola Andrews.

—George J. Benner, Esq., is a guest at the Eagle Hotel.

—There will be a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Adams County Sabbath School Association, composed of all the officers and district superintendents of said Association on Saturday, February 5th, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Pitzer House.

New Hanover Fair Officials.

The Hanover Fair of 1910 will have new officers at its head—the first important change of officials in a score of years having been made at the annual election of the Hanover Agricultural Society held last week. There will also be two new men on the Board of Directors, the older men giving place to younger blood. There were no contents, the following officers and directors being elected unanimously:—

President, C. J. Delone, Esq., Secretary, J. B. Miller, Treasurer, T. J. Little.

Directors—A. R. Brodbeck, C. J. Delone, John J. Schmidt, T. J. O'Neill, C. S. Shirk, Wm. B. Allewelt, H. M. Stokes, C. N. Myers, H. D. Sheppard, Jesse L. Brodbeck and Robert O. Wirt.

Mr. Delone succeeds R. M. Wirt, who has been President of the Society for 19 years and identified with the same since its organization.

After a service of 25 years, M. O. Smith, the venerable secretary, declined re-election. Mr. Smith was the first secretary and the only officer who served continuously since the founding of the Society.

The retiring Directors are R. M. Wirt and William J. Young. The latter was the oldest official in point of service in the Board, his services extended over a period of 24 years. He has been in charge of the horse and cattle department during this time, and voluntarily gives up the work, owing to advancing years. The new directors are H. D. Sheppard and Robert O. Wirt.

—Miss Sarah Stahle, of Buchanan Valley, visited relatives in Gettysburg.

—John A. Plank and son, of Walton, Ind., are visiting Mrs. Daniel Plank.

Hanover Produce Co. Bankrupt.

The Hanover Produce Company was adjudicated a bankrupt by Judge Archibald in the U. S. District Court at Scranton last Wednesday and Samuel T. Witmer of Hanover appointed Receiver. The officers of the Company are Aaron Hostetter, President; J. B. Eckhart, Secretary, and Charles Cremer, Treasurer. The company owned a large number of plants in Adams, Cumberland, Franklin and York counties, and in Maryland. The plants in Adams county are located at Bonneauville, Fairfield and McKnightstown. The company was organized in 1894 by Aaron Hostetter, became a corporation in 1900 with capital of $20,000, increased later to $30,000. It is said the liabilities of the company will reach from $60,000 to $75,000 with assets short of the liabilities.

W. M. May Raise Wages.

An official of the Western Maryland Railroad company is quoted as saying that the company had decided to grant an increase of wages to the locomotive engineers. It is reported that other trainmen of that company will be granted an increase.

A committee of trainmen waited on General Manager Robertson early last week and presented their claims to him.

These were later taken up with President B. F. Bush. Both the trainmen's committee and these officials were satisfied with the conference, though no definite statement of an increase in pay was at that time given.

General Manager Robertson stated after the meeting that he thought the management and the men could get together on some basis of settlement.

President Bush and Mr. Robertson then went to New York. Another official of the road said he deemed it likely some increase may have been agreed upon, but he was not informed on what basis.

that your passengers get a bit of a shaking up in the cars behind. But that is better than a rear end crash there in the close quarters of the tube, a great deal better. The train men call the finger that does the miracles a tripper. It throws a motorman on his face if he oversteps himself.

That is the way the signals work on the road where there is a straightway track, but where there are switches it's not so simple a matter. It's in the yards that the men work under their green dials with their hands upon the levers.

These stations, which they call towers, taken together have to do with the tracks for the whole system from Hudson terminal to Jersey City, up the other side and across again to Manhattan. The indicator in the tower at Cortlandt street shows the tube from the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City to Manhattan and the other tube leading back to Jersey, together with the switches in the terminal station itself.

The indicator isn't drawn to scale. The tracks under the river are shortened a good deal in comparison with the trackage in the station. Neither does it show at first glance what tubes are in operation. The builder has provided for two more tubes, one to and one from the Erie terminal on the Jersey side. It is planned ultimately to connect the Erie station directly with the Hudson terminal instead of through the Pennsylvania station, as the present scheme of operation has it.

But the whole thing is wonderfully easy to follow. You can see a train creep block by block from the Pennsylvania station to Hudson terminal, hear it thunder into the station behind you and then go out again on its way back to Jersey.

It's E. J. Pecoud who has the day trick. He stands there in front of the indicator from 8 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon watching the trains come and go. Pecoud is a tall, slender young man, and no matter how much you fuss around his room he won't take his eyes off the board.

Just behind him is a man in overalls who has to have in the front part of his head all the time the electric equipment of the switches and signals, most of which were set up and some of which were thought out by the road's engineer of design, T. B. Whitney, Jr. The man in overalls is the maintainer, W. S. Hudson. Hudson sticks to his job ten hours a day, and if the signals show wrong its he who trots out on the line to find out what is the matter.

Pecoud sees a streak of black at the right hand end of his loop. It is a streak about two inches long and shows clear against the long line of bright green light that marks the track. He spots it for a train just leaving the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City.

In ten seconds the next section to the left shows black. He knows that the wheels of the forward truck of that train have completed a circuit, at once throwing on the red and orange signal lights and cutting out the light from the indicator in front of his own face. In a second or two more the space behind the streak of black shows bright again and Pecoud knows that the first block is clear. Down in the tube, far away by the Jersey shore, the lights are set green again for any motorman who wants to follow.

Pecoud watches the train come block by block, getting nearer minute by minute. It ought to take about three minutes for the train to thunder into the terminal. It is possible to make the mile and a quarter, including the start and stop, in two minutes and a half, but the motomen aren't encouraged to push their trains.

It is not until the trains approach the switches that Pecoud has to do any turning of levers. At the top of his table just under the train indicator are twenty-three levers. They are numbered, and there are corresponding numbers on spots of light, tiny windows, just below. The even numbered levers are the signals in the yard and the odd numbered levers are the switches.

Pecoud, for instance, wants to bring his train in on track H. He sees from his illuminated diagram that it is knocking at the door to be let in, so he sets the proper signal with a twist of his hand and throws the proper switch with the same motion.

The handle of the lever won't go clear over unless the switch has done its duty. If it sticks Pecoud knows that something has gone wrong with the mechanism and that a train is being held unnecessarily. There can't be any danger because of that tripping device, but it would be uncomfortable for the folks in the train to be delayed.

So Hudson goes out on the run, steps over the third rail and makes for the place where the trouble showed. He telephoned to Pecoud over a wire of his own—there are telephones connected with the tower every hundred feet in the yards—and tells him what is the matter. The chances are that the train can creep along into the block, but always under control. The motorman knows that he has got to take things easy or the next time he will be tripped.

Presently with all things set right the train goes screaming out of the station and starts on its dip under the river watched all the way, block by block on Pecoud's charted sheet of glass.

Former Seminarian Here Advanced.

A gift of $100,000 from J. Pierpont Morgan for the establishment of the William M. Laffan professorship of Assyriology and Babylonian literature at Yale University was recently received and accepted by the Yale corporation. The gift was in honor of the late William M. Laffan, publisher of The Sun, New York.

The Rev. Dr. Albert T. Clay, of the University of Pennsylvania, has been asked to fill this new professorship. He was recommended for the chair by Prof. G. H. W. Johns of Cambridge University, England, through whom he had been brought also to the attention of Dr. Morgan as an expert.

Rev. Dr. Clay was born in Hanover 44 years ago. He is a son of the late John Martin Clay, who lived in Pennsylvania, but later moved to Lancaster. The son Albert came under the patronage of Dr. Hough, a venerable Lutheran clergyman, still living in that city. He entered Franklin and Marshall as a beneficiary student and was graduated in 1889. At this time he became interested in the study of Hebrew, which he mastered. He was graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg in 1892. He then entered the University of Pennsylvania in 1892-1894, on a Fellowship—the first created in Assyriology—working his way as instructor in Hebrew during those years. In 1895 he went to Chicago as instructor in Old Testament theology in the Lutheran Theological Seminary. In 1898 he returned to Philadelphia and to the University of Pennsylvania, where he became lecturer on Hebrew, Assyrian and Scientific archaeology and assistant curator of the Babylonian Section of the Free Museum of Science and Art, and has been engaged upon the translation of the enormous number of inscribed tablets brought to the University from excavations at Nineveh in the Valley of the Euphrates.

VALLEY HAPPENINGS

BUCHANAN VALLEY, Jan. 28th—Word was received from the hospital that Edward Hall stood the operation well, and is improving daily. A part of the bone was taken from where his finger had been amputated.

The waters were higher here last Friday than they were in many years. Miss Sarah McDermitt, visited her brother, Frank McDermitt near Fairfield last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cole and children, Earl and Josephine, and your correspondent visited at Abner Kuhns in Cashtown last Monday.

Dr. W. E. Holland, remained all night on Sunday, at the bedside of James Irwin who is critically ill, but at this writing he has rallied and is feeling better.

Mr. and Mrs. William Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wingirt, and Oliver Wingirt and son, attended the funeral of Mrs. Julius Wingirt on Monday last.

Eggs are 35 cents a dozen in the Valley, and very scarce. S. C. S.

DON'T BE MISLED.

Many a life has been cut short by a cough that was not believed to be serious. Many a backache and sideache follows a coughing spell. Many a night is passed in restlessness caused by coughing. Many a cough "cure" that never cures is tried. Do not be misled. If you cough, take the old reliable Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. At druggists' and dealers'. 25c.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell, and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists. Price 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

He Who Is Not

By MARJORIE L. PICKTHALL

(Copyright, by Short Stories Co., Ltd.)

There were three men, five ponies, and a nondescript dog with a bushy tail. For days they had been observed of the hawk and the eagle, trailing patiently over the shoulders of the hills, as little spiders might crawl up a man's coat-sleeve. Twice or thrice the winds had been minded to brush the toiling insects away, but had thought better of it; they were so very insignificant, these little black specks upon the edges of the snows.

At last the three men and the ponies and the taciturn dog climbed up above the clouds, and came out upon a bare flank of mountain, upon a long slope of soft crumbled rock ending in a thirty-foot wide ledge and a clear drop of nearly eight hundred feet.

"Well, sirs," said Macavoy, the tall, brown man with the black beard, owner of Taya the dog. "Well, sirs, I've brought you here safe. Now you have but to scratch 'f' the ground, for the whole face of the hill's riddled with veins and pockets of gold. I've done my part. So to-morrow, by your leave, Taya and I'll be goin' our ways."

"Stay with us," cordially entreated Dalsworth, artist, journalist, and wanderer to the ends of the earth. "Stay with us, and work on shares. When you led us to this place you fairly laid fortune in our hands."

"And was paid for so doing," answered Macavoy with his slow smile, "paid liberally, according to our agreement. I'm but the guide. Twice or thrice I feared I was astray, for it's three years since I was here. No, I'll not stay, thankin' you none the less. We'll be goin' our ways, me and Taya. Eh, old lass?"

The dog laid her head on the man's knee, and curled her lips back expectantly.

"If you don't mind," said young Urquhart abruptly, "I'll call that dog Monna Lisa. She has the same bony forehead and superior smirk. Oh, I know it's heresy, Dal, but don't you see the likeness? You could esteem Monna Lisa, but you could never love her. Give me a dog, likewise a woman, that you can chuck under the chin."

Macavoy looked from one to the other, a puzzled crease on his weather-beaten forehead. "Taya has wolf blood in her," he ventured; "maybe that's why she's different from others."

"To go back to what we were speaking of when Urquhart cut in," said Dalsworth, "why won't you stay? Oh, our agreement doesn't matter. Chip in with us. When you came away from this place before, you threw aside a fortune. Don't let it go a second time."

"I thank you very kindly," said Macavoy with no hesitation, "but I'll be goin' in a day or so. I mean no offense to you who think different, but to me, a shadow and a sorrow would go with this gold. Yes, I've been here before. That's why I'll not stay here now."

"You hinted of spooks before," said Dalsworth with a friendly impatience, "but surely you weren't in earnest? Go on with the story."

Macavoy bent his head, and absently fingered Taya's upstanding ears. "I know no story," he said in a low voice; "the story lies in what I do not know, and can but guess at—in all that I shall never know for sure. If Taya here could speak, she'd tell you more than I can. Dogs at times can hear and see more than men, and she's a wolf's eyes and ears. I'd a friend once, a Frenchman, who said that a wolf could hear the very foot-falls of the Angel of Death. You'll mind that, when I told you o' this place, I said there was a shadow over it? I can but tell you what that shadow may be."

"I've thought much on the matter, fitting in fact with fancy, till at length and at last, I've got a story that'll serve. It may be far from the truth. But there's naught left to verify it, save the rusty pick you saw, Mister Urquhart, lyin' in that little hole in the hillside."

"Yes, I've thought so long on it, that at last it's come to seem as if I'd seen it all—seen the hill when there was no little hole there, seen him who owns the pick."

"Him?" said Dalsworth, "him? Who? A hermit in the wilderness?"

"The Siwash have a name for him," said Macavoy in a very low voice, "which we can best translate as He-Who-Is-Not."

"He-Who-Is-Not?" asked Dalsworth again with a rising inflection on the words.

"Yes," said Macavoy simply, "for you see, sirs, he's been dead now a matter of three years. I take it."

Macavoy dropped his hands heavily on his knees. "God rest his soul," he said softly, "God rest his soul, the Irish say, whoever he was. For, O sirs, when he left Tsalekullye like a bright cloud behind him, and lifted his face to the stars, he was a doomed man! He thought that Fortune stood waitin' him on the top of the mountains, but when Fortune took her wings from before her face, she looked at him with the eyes of Death."

Dalsworth drew in his breath sharply, and glanced at the wonderful world of peak and slope, of cloud and infinite sky, which encircled their tiny camp. Night seemed to have settled, a visible brooding presence, upon the everlasting hills.

"I can see him—him that's called by the Siwash He-Who-Is-Not—"

can see him, whatever his name may have been, coming upon just this place, as we have after him. Perhaps he greeted wif joy, or maybe he played, or maybe he swore. 'Tis all one—now. He began his boy's pickin' and scrapin' among the rocks, and made his untidy camp on this ledge. Haven't ye seen many and more o' such slovenly, pitiful, tenderfoot camps?"

"He scraped and scratched among the rocks, his heart fast burstin' wif joy, maybe, two, three, even four days. Ye can tell by the size o' the hole, though it's part filled up now through the wash o' the weather. And then one night he flung his pick down, maybe, and went and stood on the brink o' this very ledge, lookin' out upon the hills, before he got his supper."

"Perhaps 'twas just such a night as this, with a round moon ridin' clear, and the chasm all one white flat sea o' cloud. Perhaps, as he stood there, stretchin' his stiff arms proudly, a stone caught him between the shoulders, a stone thrown from the hand o' that wolf-shadow that had followed him—and whirled him outwards from the ledge, as the storm whirled a bird from its cliff-nest. I seem to see that black whirlin' shape rushin' down, down, down—a vast sprawlin' shadow outspread upon the floor of cloud beneath. I seem to see the shape and its shadow rushin' together, growin' smaller, becomin' one; and no more. For that chasm, sirs, would take the whole tragedy, wif little but a faint stir 'f that green fur o' pines, so far below."

Urquhart looked out at the chasm, a pot of silently bubbling pearl beneath the moon, and shuddered. Taya whined again. "God rest his soul," said Dalsworth softly.

"But does it rest?" whispered Macavoy. His eyes glittered strangely in the red glow of the fire. "Does it rest?"

"I cannot see that wolf-shadow who followed him, whose hand sent him into eternity, very clear. But I do know that the Siwash got no payment for his crime. He never stayed to take any."

"When I came upon this place nearly three years ago, I found the wreck of a little tent on this very ledge. No, not here, Mister Urquhart, at 'f other end where you big rock slopes down. It was battered by a winter's weather, but by the snow, ye understand. I read the signs of it. It had a tenderfoot for owner, by the truck in it. Such truck ye never see, chiefly in bottles. I mind there was chlorodyne, ammoniated quinine, plain ammonia, and whisky—good whisky. Aye, I had the bottles to my nose, and besides there were the labels. But they were all empty, and flung about in a muddle o' rotted blanket. Taya had 'em to her nose, and growled, readin' more than I. 'Siwash, old lass!' I says to her, and she growls again. Some unclean thing had nestled in that tent, drunk all them mixed liquors, and then gone, as if in fright, touchin' no more—not even some bits o' gold in a little brown canvas bag."

"There was that about the matter that weighed upon me so that I sent all the tent and everythin' in it over the rocks there. I'd seen the pick on the hillside, and by this and that I'd read the story plain. We'd lived among cleaner, kinder things, me and Taya, and we'd no mind to meddle wif gold which had that shadow on it. 'We'll make enough out of it by tellin' other folks,' I says to Taya. 'We'll have no finger in this pie, old lass. 'Tis cursed from the beginnin'! But some folks 'd face Old Hornie himself for the sake of a few nuggets. We'll rest here to-night, lass, and to-morrow we'll go our ways.' And Taya wagged her tail."

"The mornin' came up clear behind Tsalekullye, and Taya and I went our ways. We carried the secret o' the gold with us—and more than that, more than that, I had heard. Taya, maybe, had both seen and heard, for she looked at me wif her yellow eyes and tried to tell me what she knew. Aye, as the gold had drawn that poor fool, livin', so it drew him, dead."

He paused, and again one of the restless ponies whickered in the silence.

"Do you mean that He-Who-Is-Not 'walks'?" asked Dalsworth at last, bluntly.

Macavoy nodded slowly. "I have not seen, ye understand," he answered, "I only hear. But I know that He-Who-Is-Not finds no rest."

"Poor fool!" said Urquhart softly, "poor young fool. You're sorry for him, eh, Monna Lisa?"

The dog looked across the fire to the black slope above where the stars hung in splendor above the last faint crest of snow. Urquhart followed her gaze, huddling deeper into his blanket. "But—but I don't see—" began Dalsworth argumentatively.

"Then listen," said Macavoy, "listen."

Dalsworth listened. And an odd expression dawned in his eyes, and expression half-pitiful, half-incredulous, wholly wondering. Softly, he took off his cap, as one takes it off in the presence of the dead.

What was the faint ghost of sound, thin, distant, yet not to be mistaken, that came to his ears? Was it the "think, think" of a miner's pick upon loose stones?

Great Britain will lend to Canada two second-class cruisers to serve in the fishery patrol and as training ships for Canadian boys. One of them will be stationed on the Atlantic coast and one on the Pacific. This is a good beginning for the new Canadian navy. They will train crews for the Canadian fishery patrol.

WATCH FOR SCHOOL OF FISH

Norwegian Says Detailed to Warn Farmers of the Approach of Their Finny Prey.

It is common enough to see a boy watching cattle to keep them from straying, and in days not so very long gone by it was no unusual thing for a boy to be set to keep the birds off the crops; but a watchboy whose duty it is to keep a lookout for a school of fish and who sits in a sentry box set upon stilts is not an everyday sight. This particular kind of watchboy is Norwegian, the scene of his labors being the shores of some fiord of his native land.

His little sentry box is made of wood and perched upon posts. Here the lad sits, gazing out across the arm of the sea, using his keen eyes for the benefit of the farmers who are depending on him to give the alarm when a school of fish shall appear. They work contentedly enough in their fields secure in their belief that their watchboy will let them know when it is time to reap a harvest from the sea instead of from the land.

When the signal is given they leave their work, throw their big nets over their shoulders and hurry off to the boats.

Sentry boxes similar to those employed in Norway were in use among the fishermen on the shores of the Mediterranean, and it is supposed that the vikings brought back with them from some of their piratical raids the idea that has been put in practice ever since.—Youth's Companion.

PIGEON'S DEVOTION TO MATE

Remarkable Attention That Has Attracted Notice of Bird Lovers in Virginia.

A story of the devotion of a carrier pigeon for his mate is told by a party of amateur fishermen from the valley of Virginia. It is laid in the village of Overall, at the farm of Capt. Manley Triplett, whose place borders the Shenandoah river.

Several weeks ago a female carrier pigeon bearing the number S. A. 19459, with a broken wing, fluttered as best she could, with the assistance of her mate, on whose leg was attached the inscription D 5821, into the open window of Capt. Triplett's barn. There the male bird in his own peculiar fashion proceeded to make her as comfortable as possible. He then disappeared and was gone for four weeks, when he returned. Since his return he has tried in every way known to pigeon lore to help his mate fly again, but in vain. Now he seems to have settled down to a sledge of the most commendable domesticity. Daily he lingers near his mate, feeding her and caring for her in various ways until he has won the admiration not only of Capt. Triplett and his family, but of the countryside for miles around. It is regarded as a remarkable case of devotion in the feathered tribe.

A "Little Difference."

"Yes, sir, gentlemen; that's a little difference between farmin' out west an' back here in old Vermont," said Uncle St. Eggmann to the cronies around the stove at the cross-roads store, on his return from a visit to his brother in Dakota. "Now, out thar in the west they don't think they're reelly got a farm unless it totals about 3,000 or 4,000 acres; an' if they ain't raisin' stock they speak o' 5,000 head as bein' a 'leettle bunch o' cattle.' An' takes 'em 'bout half a day to hoe one row o' corn, the rows ar so long, an' they harvest corn an' wheat enough on one farm to fill our town hall. Now, that's a leettle different from what it is here in New England, where we call 20 acres o' ground, a couple o' dozen hens, an' a rooster, six or eight keows, an' a rozberry patch, a farm? Yes, sir, gentlemen, that's a turrible difference between farmin' east an' farmin' west—a most turrible difference!"—Puck.

It Worked Thus.

Mr. Bjones of East Cleveland explained it to us this way: "I thought my wife might be afraid of tramps and porch-climbers and such, so I bought her a watch-dog. He was a fierce-looking bull, and I thought he'd about fill the bill."

"I got him in the morning, and I had him sent right out to the house. When I got home that night there was one of the toughest-looking hoboes you ever saw, sitting on the porch."

"What in thunder are you doing here?" I asked.

"Well, boss," says he, "I come lookin' fer a handout, and yer lady give me 50 cents to stick around and protect her from dat dog o' yours. He's 'lible to eat 'er up any minute!"

Anecdotes Told of Wit.

When A. T. Stewart conceived the idea of setting up a coat of arms he went to W. R. Travers, the New York wit, for advice. Mr. Travers suggested an employer rampant, chasing a lazy salesman with a yard-stick and Mr. Stewart did not speak to him again for a month. This anecdote is probably as authentic as the other, which states that Mr. Stewart being extremely loquacious at a state banquet at Delmonico's, Mr. Travers silenced him by calling the length of the table: "Cash!"

It Did Sound Funny.

"That was an awful joke your wife sprung."

"I didn't hear it."

"Well, shortly after you were married she told my wife that she'd taken a fat, but might leave it at any time."

SKELLY & WARNER

MODEL ORCHARDS.

These Selected in Adams County by Prof. Surface.

Prof. H. A. Surface, State Economic Zoologist, has announced the lists of model orchards that have been selected throughout the State for purposes of demonstration by his department. These orchards will be cared for by the State, experts of Professor Surface conducting all the operations of pruning and spraying, and in return the owners will give free access to all who wish to study the methods employed and observe the results. The purpose is educational, the desire being to give farmers and fruit-growers of every county practical object lessons in up-to-date orchard management, particularly with regard to the elimination of tree and fruit pests.

Some time ago Professor Surface asked for proposals from owners willing to grant the use of their orchards for this purpose. More than 1800 favorable responses were received, and the selections were made from these.

The model orchards are of two classes. Those for ordinary exhibition purposes are to be known as "Supervision Model Orchards," and those in which assemblages of farmers are to be held for instruction purposes are to be called "Public Meeting Model Orchards," and selections made for Adams County are as follows:

Public Meeting Model Orchards.

Colonel C. A. Richardson, Gettysburg; George F. Sites, Fairfield; R. H. Lupp, Biglerville; Mrs. Camille N. Weaver, New Oxford.

Supervising Model Orchards.

J. D. Mickle, Cashtown; S. S. Mehring, Littlestown; H. V. Rahn, Abbottstown; Henry B. Jacobs, East Berlin; R. E. Wible, Gettysburg; H. M. Keller, Gettysburg; C. E. Tawney, Gettysburg; L. B. Lau, East Berlin; George D. Sheely, New Oxford; William M. Bingham's Sons, Gettysburg; John R. Kuhn, East Berlin; E. H. Snyder & Son, Jack's Mountain; David Hoke, Hanover.

FLORIDAY VISITORS BACK.

ABERDEEN, Jan. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Minter, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Lupp, Mrs. Elias Hoffman and Miss Mary Minter of Brysonia, have returned from their trip to Florida and are greatly pleased with that country.

Miss Stella Trostle has returned from a two weeks' visit with friends in Reading.

Miss Annie K. Sheely is visiting friends in Harrisburg.

Mrs. Geo. Bluebaugh, an aged lady who has her home with her son Harry, in Butler township near this place, tripped in her room and fell, fracturing her right hip. Dr. Wolf of this place set the fracture. Her husband, Geo. Bluebaugh, died on Sat., the 31st.

At this writing we have plenty of snow and good sleighing.

Mrs. Allen Trostle of this place, who spent several weeks with her parents at Spring Run, Pa., has returned home.

It Saves You Money.

The special half price sale of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by L. M. Buehler means the saving of a few dollars on every family's yearly bill for medicines.

Each 50 cent bottle (Mr. Buehler sells it for 25 cents) contains sixty doses of a medicine that is pleasant to take and which can be depended upon to cure the worst case of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble. Mr. Buehler has so much faith in the superior merit of this medicine that he says "If Dr. Howard's specific does not cure you, come back to my store and I will return money."

This remedy is not an ordinary medicine. It is the favorite formula of a well known physician, and has the endorsement of hundreds of physicians of eminence in their profession, who prescribe it in all cases of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble, knowing from experience that it will make a complete and lasting cure.

BOUGHT ANOTHER FARM.

EAST BERLIN, Jan. 31.—R. B. Glatfelter, Editor of "East Berlin News," we are sorry to record is critical ill on account of gangrene of the scrotum. Drs. Spatz and Lou operated on him yesterday.

Rev. John Harlacher, of Mulberry, York Co., living five miles from East Berlin, is 88 years old and walks to our town some times twice a week and frequently walks to Dover seven miles from his home. He walks as smart as some of our young men.

Samuel Jacobs, of Holtzswam, four miles east of town, has sold his farm of 96 acres to Henry Sheffer for $4500. The purchaser has three other farms, all joining. Mr. Jacobs has bought the property of Moses Bowser in this town on corner of Abbottstown and Locust Streets for $2450.

A. A. Gruver has received a carload of horses and mules last week, 21 horses and 10 mules in the bunch and will have public sale on Thursday, Feb. 3.

IN a recent issue of a prominent Philadelphia Paper was the statement in bold headlines that, in addition to a 50 per cent advance in cotton textiles which had gradually taken place, another advance had been made, by agreement of manufacturers, of 25 per cent. to go into effect at once, giving plausible reasons of high priced cotton, higher priced labor, &c., for so doing.

There is no proof by facts that there is any such heavy advance as 50 per cent. on many textiles in common use, except possibly that of Bleached and Brown Muslins, and that has to be based on the price of raw cotton of several years ago to substantiate the claim as the advance has been gradual.

While there has of necessity, because of the reasons given, been some advance in price in almost all textiles, we believe that we could select a thousand articles out of our stock on which there is no advance in price over a year ago, and a comparative few on which there is an advance. We contracted for much of our spring stock months ago at same prices, or near that of months before, and much of that stock is now here, others later. For instance—
